CHANGES IN PAY LAW INDICATED BY TEST VOTE

Victory Seen for Amendments Despite Objections of President.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26—Test votes on parliamentary questions strengthened indications today that the house would approve amendments to the wage-hour law despite President Roosevelt's advice to wait a year.

Just how far these revisions would go was a riddle remaining to be answered when the roll is called next week. The President spoke out specifically against the Barden amendments, most far-reaching of those under consideration.

While the house was arguing this issue, the Smith committee resumed its inquiry into another field of labor legislation — the Wagner act and the national labor board. The decision to renew public hearings was interpreted generally as an attempt to whip up sentiment for sweeping changes in the Wagner act, which may come before the house within two weeks.

Ready For Wage-Hour

The house voted yesterday to take up all wage-hour amendments before it learned of a letter from President Roosevelt to an unidentified friend saying that it is too early to know whether changes are needed in the law.

"Farm labor is not affected by the act," the President wrote. "In view of all the circumstances, I think it would be a great mistake to adopt the Barden amendments. By another year, we shall know a great deal more about the subject."

Chairman Norton (D-N. J.) of the house labor committee, who will offer the letter formally during the expected rough-and-tumble debate, interpreted it as voicing opposition to any revisions at this time.

Proponents of revision defeated, first by the narrow margin of 189 to 185 and later by votes of 167 to 92 and 233 to 141, three attempts to prevent the house from considering any wage-hour amendments this year.

Doors Thrown Open

Before their victory, however, they were forced to concede a point when the proposed amendments were opened to any and all change.

The Barden proposals would exempt a large group of processors of farm products from the minimum wage provision, now 30 cents an hour, and the maximum work week, now 42 hours.

Another set of amendments before the house would exempt many of the agricultural processors from the hours' maximum but would leave the wage minimm unchanged.

A third group would make no change in the agricultural processing field but would exempt white collar workers receiving more than $200 a month.

All three acts wold exempt some white collar workers and workers in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

70 PER CENT SIGNED FOR AAA PLAN HERE

List in County Increases as Deadline Nears.

Approximately 70 per cent of Marion county's farmers are already signed up for the 1940 AAA program with the deadline scheduled to fall May 1, the county AAA committee reported today.

Growers have been reporting steadily in the last several days that they intend to cooperate in the federal farm program this year. According to indications now the extent of cooperation will be about the same as last year.

By signing a "farm plan" by May 1, farmers become eligible for conservation and parity payments and for participation in such affiliated programs as wheat insurance and the corn loan program.

It is estimated that if all Marion county's 3,100 or so farmers cooperated fully they could receive $450,000 from the government. Last year payments totaled more than $300,000 out of a maximum of $464,000.

Camera views of the Girl Scout Little House at 124 East Columbia street are shown herewith. Left, above, are Diana Cheney, left, and Mary Lister, both of Troop 8, waving to Miss Margaret Roundy, Girl Scout director, standing in the doorway. Pictured in the kitchen are Maxine Culp, Troop 1, at the table, and Garnet Smith, Troop 3. In the lower picture, left to right, are Frances Fisher, Troop 11; Betty Lou Freed and Jo Ann Marble, Troop 12, standing in the rear recreation room, Miss Roundy, Mrs. F. L. Thomas of 337 South Main street, Girl Scout commissioner, and Mrs. Thomas' daughter, Ann, a member of Troop 15.

By HALLIE HOUCK

There's romance in old houses and the one at 124 East Columbia street has twice been a "dream house"—first of a bride and bridegroom of the '80's, now of Marion's Girl Scouts.

Today it's the Little House, one of the few among Ohio's Girl Scout organizations and one of about 700 in the United States.

That it is weatherbeaten does not detract; rather the sparkling windows, the fresh curtains, the burnt-wood sign hanging over the street and a lantern lamp over the entrance give a quaint air to the 54-year-old house.

The clean smell of fresh wallpaper, soap and paint greet visitors, several of whom have been women in the neighborhood who are delighted that the old house is again occupied and once more in the care of those who delight in keeping it spick and span.

House Has Six Rooms

The Little House has six rooms, none of them large, but all adequate for Girl Scout purposes. There are two entrances from the street, one at the west side which leads into the office, the other at the east side entering a small hall to the left of which is the main recreation or reception room. Back of the office is the kitchen and back of the main room is a smaller recreation room which will eventually house a library of Girl Scout literature and a long table for reading or working on handcraft projects. Between this room and the kitchen there is a small bathroom. Upstairs there is a hall and two rooms, one in front and one in back, for troop meetings, and arts and crafts classes, and a storage room for camp equipment, troop signs and other paraphernalia.

Since March 30 the most thorough job of housecleaning done in Marion this spring has been underway at the Little House. Unoccupied since last fall and at frequent intervals untenanted for many months before that, the "dream house" was a challenge to the housekeeping instincts of the girls and of the women on the Girl Scout council.

Women could not have done all the work necessary to reclaim the old dwelling, rewiring it for electricity, papering every room, repairing floors, repairing the plumbing, checking gas and water lines, hanging blinds, putting up beaverboard on one bathroom wall before it was papered—this work needed men.

The Men Help, Too

And did the men respond? Days and nights they worked, many of them fathers who took time after a hard day's work to go down and do their bit towards making the house shipshape. One group of city firemen did the electrical wiring—and it's a first class, between-the-walls-and-ceilings job. Every room was freshly papered and one night one of the council women turned to and MARYSVILLE, April 26—Dispute over the resignation of F. G. Bittikofer, veteran superintendent of the Marysville schools, apparently was quited for good today as he announced acceptance of a two-year contract as superintendent at New Dover, a Union county school.

Considerable public dissatisfaction, including threats from Marysville High school students that they would "strike" unless Mr. Bittikofer were offered a new two-year contract, followed the resignation early this month. Mr.

HUNT FOR BODY OF WOMAN IN SCIOTO

Fear Farmer's Wife Drowned in River Near Radnor.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., April 26—Delaware county officers today were dragging the swift-running water of the Scioto river northwest of Radnor for the body of Mrs. Evan T. Jones, 61, wife of a widely known Delaware county farmer, believed to have drowned yesterday a few hours before she was to have gone to Marion to get a new pair of glasses.

The hunt started shortly before noon yesterday when a person in the neighborhood found articles of her clothing and her eye glasses on the river bank and footprints in the muddy bank leading down into the water.

A boat was obtained from Prospect early yesterday afternoon and Sheriff M. F. Pinney and deputies rowed out into the swift current of the swollen river to search for the body. Finding the current too swift to make practical headway, the search was discontinued until this morning.

Grappling hooks were being used today to drag the river. Large crowds gathered along each side of the river, watching officials work and scanning the water closely for any sign of the body.

Although circumstantial evidence indicates Mrs. Jones had drowned, officials said that until the body is found there will be no conclusive evidence. Mrs. Jones has been in ill health since January, according to friends.

Mrs. Jones' absence from home was discovered about 5 a. m. by her husband when he returned from chore work, but the active search for her was not started until the clothing was found at 11 a. m.

Two jackets and a stocking cap were found about 300 feet from the house, along the river bank.

Mr. Jones said he and his wife were to have gone to Marion yesterday to get new glasses for which she had been fitted on Monday of this week.

Mrs. Jones is the mother of Mrs. Geneva Walk and Joseph Jones of Detroit and is a sister of Miss Bertha Williams and Mrs. Harry Haney of Delaware and Mrs. John Parmer and Mrs. William Pegley of near Kilbourne.

L. W. McDaniel Is New Marion Checker Champ

Lawrence W. McDaniel of 304 Edgewood drive won the city checker championship last night as the three-round tournament sponsored by the Marion Checker club drew to a close.

Runner-up for the title was Earl H. Coffey of 237 Bellevue avenue, who for several years has held the mythical city checker crown by virtue of winning the last citywide tournament held several years ago. M. D. Metz, superintendent of the Marion county children's home, and R. E. Smith of 502 Park street tied for third place.

Mr. McDaniel, sales manager of the McDaniel Motor Co., won 21 games, lost four and tied five in the 30-game tournament. Mr. Coffey, Mr. Metz and Mr. Smith were only a few points lower.

As the new city champion Mr. McDaniel receives a large silver loving cup awarded by the Checker club. Plans are to hold similar tournaments each year.

BRITAIN ADMITS REVERSES IN NORWAY WAR

London, However, Expresses Confidence in Final Outcome at Trondheim.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 26. — British military sources admitted today loss of "the first trick" in Norway, but expressed confidence in the outcome of a decisive battle for Trondheim, for which both sides are hurriedly concentrating men and guns.

While these sources conceded that Germany had "the best of it" in the air in the opening phase, the air ministry announced that royal air force fighting planes and anti-aircraft guns had brought down eight enemy planes and damaged nine others in "vigorous offensive action" in Norway yesterday and last night.

For the first time the ministry announced action by R.A.F. planes in the north. The communique stated that "five of our aircraft are missing" and others had been damaged by bombing attacks.

Oil Tanks Blasted

The R.A.F. attacks on German airplane bases in Norway and Denmark were said by the the air ministry to have blasted oil tanks on Oslo fjord, a seaplane base and four large ships northeast of Stavanger.

Military sources, meanwhile, conceded Germany at least temporary aerial superiority because of her "five, possibly six, air bases in Norway" and pointed out Britain might be having difficulty getting bases in the rugged Norwegian territory.

These sources pictured the war in Norway as settling down to a battle for Trondheim, on the outcome of which the whole future course of the Scandinavian conflict may depend.

"A treacherous invasion," one British source said, gave Germany all the initial advantage.

"We knew we would have a difficult time and certain of our forces probably are having difficulties, but don't think for a moment this is going to have a detrimental effect on the allied effort in Norway."

Diplomats Busy

Britain is counting on friendly relations with Russia and Japan as well as increased fleet activity in the Pacific to chink the Vladivostok crack in the allied blockade of Germany.

Informed sources today said better relations with Japan were being sought and conciliatory gestures made toward the Soviet Union in an about-face from the bitter hostility existing during the Russian-Finnish war.

Britain and Japan were reported nearer an agreement on the disposal of Chinese government-claimed silver which is held in the British and French concessions at Tientsin, scene of British-Japanese tension for ten months. The British also are endeavoring to maneuver their Pacific blockade ships so as to offend Japanese feelings.

In renewing British-Russian trade pact overtures, Britain sought assurance Russian imports would not be trans-shipped to Germany and that only a minimum of Russia's own products would be sold the reich.

Agree in Part

The Russians were said to have agreed to the first stipulation but to insist their nation's internal economy requires normal dealings with Germany in Russian products. The British, however, may try to outbid Germany for Russian goods.

Figures given out by the ministry of economic warfare showed 1,500 tons of various goods are shipped daily from Vladivostok to Germany by way of the trans-Siberian railway.

NORWAY SALES ON CASH BASIS

President's Proclamation Puts Embattled Country in List of Banned Nations.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26 — American munitions sales to Norway went on a "cash and carry" basis today as presidential proclamations extended operations of the neutrality act to that embattled country.

The action also had the effect of cancelling the $10,000,000 credit recently granted to Norway by the export-import bank.

President Roosevelt invoked the neutrality act in a series of three proclamations issued yesterday at Warm Springs, Ga. The documents did not mention the status of Denmark, which the Germans occupied simultaneously with the start of their Norwegian invasion.

As the conflict abroad brought this fresh adjustment of American foreign policy, the commerce department reported that the war had sent American exports 51 per cent ahead of last year. During the first quarter of 1940 exports have exceeded imports by $410,340,000—or almost half of the favorable trade balance of $839,000,000 recorded for all of 1939.

Plane Exports Gain

The most notable export gains were in airplanes, iron and steel products, other manufactured goods, non-ferrous metals, lubricants, metal-working machinery, motor truck, tractors and chemicals.

The total value of first quarter exports was placed at $1,068,773,000 as against $899,408,000 last year. Imports advanced 23 per cent to $658,424,000. The 1939 total for the period was $526,798,000.

The latest neutrality proclamations added Norway to the belligerent list which already included the British empire, France, Germany and Poland.

Finds State of War

One proclamation found a state of war to exist between Norway and the reich, a second declared American neutrality in that conflict, and a third barred Norwegian submarines from American ports and territorial waters.

Official quarters pointed out that previous action put the Danes virtually in the same position as the Norwegians. American ships have been prohibited from carrying cargoes to Denmark for some time, because the country is now within the combat zones closed to American shipping by President Roosevelt last fall.

BATTLE RAGES FOR CONTROL IN CENTRAL AREA

Norwegian Volunteers Help To Check Speed of German Troops' Advance.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, April 26—Reports reaching Swedish newspapers late today indicate the allied and Norwegian forces on the front below Trondheim had inflicted considerable losses on German advance units, forcing them back to a point five miles south of Roros.

* * *

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, April 26.—The struggle for supremacy in Central Norway raged with increasing intensity today as British troops were reported moving south from Storen to meet a mechanized German column driving up the Osterdalen valley toward Trondheim.

Advices from Roros, 70 miles southeast of Trondheim, to which the Germans advanced with lightning rapidity yesterday, said that the Nazis were being held up—at least temporarily—by hastily organized Norwegian volunteers.

The Nazis, presumably finding the terrain at Roros unfavorable, retired some 10 or 15 miles and were reported digging in.

In the Gudbrandsdalen valley to the west another flying Nazi column appeared to have bogged down at Ringebu, some 160 miles south of Trondheim.

French Troops Arrive

The British position around Trondheim itself, meanwhile, was reported improved by the arrival of crack French troops, including Foreign Legionnaires and Alpine soldiers.

The Germans continued, however, to pour a steady stream of reinforcements into Trondheim by air transport, each capable of carrying 30 men. There also were reports that a German ship had managed to evade the British blockade and enter Trondheim fjord with supplies.

The German situation at the Arctic port of Narvik was said to be becoming more precarious. Some sources estimated that the Nazi force there carrying on from mountain positions around the town with the aid of munitions flown in by plane, now numbers less than 500 men.

In general the fighting throughout Norway appeared to be between small units, maneuvering swiftly for position. All reports agreed, however, that the German detachments, regardless of their size, were armed to a highly effective degree with automatic weapons.

The Norwegian high command, in a communique issue late last night, said that the Norwegians, reinforced by British troops, were occupying "new prepared positions" astride the Gudbrandsdalen valley after a 30-mile withdrawal yesterday from Lillehammer.

British Planes Arrive

British pursuit planes, apparently newly arrived in Norway, are "keeping watch" on the valley, the Norwegians said.

Swedish dispatches indicated that the British had tightened their hold on the strategically important town of Storen, 25 miles south of Trondheim, where the parallel railway lines which the Germans have been following through the Osterdalen and Gudbrandsdalen valleys converge.

British forces attempting to close in on Trondheim from the north were reported being held at Vaernes airfield, 20 miles away, by the guns of three German destroyers in Agen Trondheim fjord.

The British government announced in Stockholm, however, that the French cruiser Emile Bertin had engaged four German warships in the Trondheim fjord yesterday and had damaged the most powerful. The British reported that the German ships had been beached after the action.

The naval action also asserted that the British have established a control of three submarine north of Trondheim, that their aircraft carriers are off the Norwegian coast and that they now are prepared to challenge German supremacy in the air—one of the highest factors in Nazi successes in Norway to date.

MARION ATTORNEYS AT STATE MEETING

Lawyers To List Preferences for Supreme Court.

Several Marion attorneys, headed by William Kay Davis, president of the Marion County Bar association, were in Columbus today attending the annual spring meeting of the Ohio State Bar association.

Among other Marion leaders attending were James E. Reed and John K. Bartram, members of the 12-man executive committee of the junior bar section of the state bar association. Mr. Bartram formerly was president of the junior section. The executive committee will consider programs of Americanism and publicity among other matters.

Ohio attorneys will be asked by the state association this year for the first time to express preelection preference for supreme court candidates, The Associated Press reported from Columbus today.

Results of the poll will be announced as a guide to voters in the November general election.

The bar association decided upon the move yesterday at its annual spring meeting. Charles M. Buss of Cleveland, Donald A. Finkbeiner of Toledo and William A. Mason of Youngstown were selected to conduct the poll.

Buss said biographical data and character sketches of all candidates would be made available to all lawyers of the state so that they might choose those best qualified to sit on the supreme court.

Prof. Silas A. Harris of Ohio State university urged the bar group to find new ways to provide business for attorneys. He said that a recent survey in Columbus showed a general public distrust of lawyers and that attorneys were unable to make sufficient personal contacts to break down this widespread prejudice.

The cost of relief in this county for the first three months of 1940 was $6,963.34 which is among the lowest of the state for counties of 20,000 and less population.

CHANGES IN KENTON SEWAGE PLANT HALT

Court Order Prevents Alterations Pending Hearing.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., April 26 — The city of Kenton has been enjoined from making any alterations or additions to the North Kenton sewage disposal plant pending hearings on two petitions, filed in common pleas court Thursday by farm residents of north of the city.

In both suits, brought by John W. and Sarah E. Bryant and by Edwin L. Steiner, an injunction is asked to halt use of the North Kenton plant which plaintiffs allege is obsolete and permits sewage to escape onto their lands through open ditches.

In the Bryant suit the city also was asked to halt, immediately, any work of constructing an auxiliary septic tank or improve existing coke beds on the grounds no permission for said work had been obtained from the state department of health. A temporary injunction was granted and work was halted, Attorneys E. B. Wetherill and Carter W. Schwemer, counsel for the plaintiffs said.

Recently three stream pollution suits were filed against the city by farmers north of Kenton and Steiner obtained a judgment for $1,000 which is to be paid this fall from a special tax levy assessed by city council against city real estate.

"Surpasses all others"

"The Williamson Heater Company:

We surely made a very wise decision by choosing a Williamson Triple-life furnace. Our home is so comfortable—we use less fuel—we do not have the dirt from the coal and ashes in our rooms—and we do not need to fire it as often. We think the Williamson Triple-life furnace surpasses all other heating plants."

FEEBLE RALLY EFFORT FAILS

Few Aircrafts and Specialties Edge Forward but Others Lag Behind.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 26—Feeble trips at a rally met with scant response by leaders in today's stock market.

A handful of aircrafts and specialties edged forward, but steels, motors, mail orders, rails and coppers generally lingered in losing territory.

Business news had its illuminating spots, especially first quarter steel figures, but the industrial outlook still was cloudy enough to keep potential stock buyers wary.

Bonds and commodities were mixed. European markets steadied.

Under water most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Kennecott and Safeway Stores.

Rails were watched as the first 32 roads to report for March revealed net operating income 4.2 per cent ahead of the like 1939 month.

WHEAT PRICES DOWN 2 CENTS AT CHICAGO

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 26.—Wheat prices were pushed down 2 cents today to the lowest levels since April 13 as the market absorbed selling inspired by good rains in the domestic southeast and heavy marketings, particularly at spring wheat terminals.

Despite large receipts at Minneapolis, trade reports said demand for cash grain there was the best in months, indicating commercial dealers were absorbing the supplies readily. Announcement that the German foreign minister will make a statement early tomorrow caused many dealers to operate with caution.

Wheat closed 1¾-2¼ cents lower than yesterday, May $1.07¾-¾, July $1.06¾-1¼; corn ¼-¾ down, May 63¼-¾, July 64¾-¼; oats ½-1¼ lower.

Marion, Upper Sandusky Men Recall 60-Below-Zero Fighting

By JACK ELLIOTT

When all the fighting was going on not long ago in the bitter cold of Finland, unhappy memories of war and death and freezing were brought back sharply to four men in and near Marion.

The four were members of two Allied expeditions into Russia and Siberia during and after the World war — expeditions which most historians regard as ill-fated and empty of success.

For three of the four men their experiences have proved to be rather empty of reward. They have received no pensions, no bonus, none of the special benefits accorded by a grateful government to regular World war veterans many of whom never saw an enemy.

Mercury at 60 Below

All these men not only saw the enemy but had to fight in a desolate region of the world where temperatures went down more than 60 degrees below zero, where the population was unfriendly and where in many cases the enemy was better armed and far more numerous.

In one of the expeditions casualties were estimated at 50 per cent and in the other were probably about as bad.

One of the four has lost his health and he blames it on fever contracted during service.

The fight of the three men for benefits apparently has reached a blank wall. All three enlisted after the Armistice and the law provides that no adjusted service compensation shall be paid unless service began before Nov. 11, 1918.

Only One Getting Benefit

The fourth man, who enlisted before the Armistice, has had no difficulty with his service benefits.

The three, two of whom have just about given up hope, are Richard Henry England, 43, of 391 Monroe street, Lindsey Lee Ferrell, 40, of 143 DeWolfe Court, and Emmett D. Sigler of Upper Sandusky. All were with the 27th Infantry which was sent into eastern Siberia to protect railroad communications.

The fourth man, Carl S. Kay, 47, of 559 Courtland avenue, was with the 85th Division, 339th Regiment, Headquarters Co., which was part of a cosmopolitan expedition into Northern Russia at Archangel, two degrees south of the Arctic circle.

Ferrell and England have both tried various means to secure recognition of their service, but in vain. Sigler has written to Congressman Frederick C. Smith, but there appears to be little which can be done until the federal law is changed.

Ferrell's case is probably the most unfortunate. He has had "hard sledding" for a long time and for a while had to go on relief. His 10-year-old son is blind as a result of an infantile paralysis attack and apparently is a hopeless case. Ferrell himself is subject to recurring spells of dizziness and partial paralysis, which he traces back to a severe case of fever which he contracted in the Philippines after his Siberian service.

One Shovel Worker

England is a crane operator at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. where he has a 16-year service record.

Sigler's address is listed in connection with the historical records survey project in the U.S.W.W. rooms at the Upper Sandusky courthouse.

Mr. Kay, the only one of the four who has a World war service record, is vice president and general manager of the Marion Hi-Speed Co., Inc., and has lived in Marion two and a half years. He came here from Michigan but is a native of Youngstown. He is married and has two children.

His experience in the Archangel region of Russia south of the White sea revolve around the efforts of the Allies, chiefly the British, to create a new eastern front after the collapse of Imperial Russia.

The expedition included 5,000 American soldiers from the 85th Division and about 4,000 English, French, Canadian, Australian and Italian men. This meager force was supposed to cut down from Archangel, join forces with a White Russian army and move against the Germans from the east.

However, in between the Allied forces and the White Russians were the Bolsheviks, a host of them outnumbering the Allies about 25 to 1. Mr. Kay recalled. Whether the Allied command underestimated the strength and fighting abilities of the Red Russians is not known here, but something went wrong and the Allies were stopped dead about 250 miles south of Archangel.

The force had landed at Archangel on Sept. 4, 1918 and left on August 25, 1919, several months after the regular war had ended.

Armistice Day Battle

"I remember a battle we had on Armistice day itself," Mr. Kay recalled recently. "It was at Upper Toigus around 9 o'clock in the morning — although we didn't have a very good conception of time up there. They hit us from the front and before we could get our artillery into action they struck in the rear. For a while only four Lewis guns held them off until we could get our bigger guns reversed."

By 6 o'clock that night the Allies had counter-attacked and retaken field hospitals from the Reds.

The Reds, incidentally, never tried a flank attack, which seems to be favored by American forces. They always struck from the front or rear or both.

The Allies often tried flanking movements, but the flanking parties never reached their objectives, Mr. Kay said. Invariably they would run into some obstacle —perhaps one of the many lakes such as those which hampered the Russians so badly in Finland recently.

The Allies for a while were spread out over a 300-mile front in a thin line, without maps or dependable communications of any kind. Their position was extremely precarious in view of the vastly superior forces of the enemy.

Archangel Taken

When the Allies went into the region they immediately took the offensive, driving the Reds out of Archangel. The Reds retreated about 250 miles then made a stand.

"When they wanted us to stop, we stopped," Mr. Kay said. "They not only had us outnumbered but outranged. Their guns were 11 inches and our biggest were 4.9 inches."

After this advance, the Allied forces were on the defensive for the rest of their stay in Russia. They received their orders to withdraw in July of 1919 as soon as boats could get in from the outside world.

Mr. Kay thinks the force could have been evacuated at the Armistice, but for some reason was not, and then the winter set in, freezing the water routes tightly. One river, across which a railroad line was built on the ice, was frozen 39 inches deep.

There was almost continuous fighting throughout the campaign. The allies holed up wherever possible in log huts in the midst of the northern forests, protected by strategic gun emplacements. Casualties were about 50 per cent.

The cold would not have been bearable if there had been wind, Mr. Kay said.

Hit 64 Below

"It got down as low as 64 degrees below zero but you wouldn't freeze unless you were wounded and couldn't move around. In five minutes you would be stiff."

The men wore fur-lined overcoats, canvas shoes two-thirds of the way up the calf with cork soles. Their hats left only the eyes visible. At night the men slept in about everything they could find and needed about as much bedclothing underneath as on the top.

The "cooties" didn't seem to mind the cold, Mr. Kay recalled that when men put their clothing outside at night in an effort to kill their tormentors, the cooties would come to life again in the morning when the clothing was brought near a fire.

The country was desolate and 60 days after the Allies entered they went on half rations. The men didn't get their first mail until February 1919, when they found out the Armistice had been signed. While the men in France were celebrating, the Russian expeditionary force was building block houses to keep the Reds off.

Mr. Kay is a full-fledged member of the Polar Bear unit of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Detroit, which holds a reunion every two years on Memorial day. There are now about 1,500 of the veterans. In 1930 the unit sponsored an expedition to go back to the scene of the fighting and recover bodies of their dead comrades. In all 217 bodies were brought back and in impressive services were buried in a special section of a Detroit cemetery.

Wouldn't Go Back

Mr. Kay wouldn't want to go back to Russia—not for the world. But he wouldn't take a million dollars for his experiences over there.

One of the interesting things about the life of the soldiers were their baths in Archangel, which were taken in vast public bath houses. It operated on a steam principal, water being thrown on hot stones to make the steam.

"There were three parts to a bath, and it cost about 30 cents," Mr. Kay recalled. "First you take off your heavy clothing in one room. In the next room you strip and in the third room you take your steam bath. The last room was equipped with tiers, like a chicken roost and the idea was to gradually go higher and higher until you were in the thickest part of the steam. Then you were whipped to stimulate circulation.

Mr. Kay was lucky to have a place to bathe. The other three veterans, according to Mr. England, didn't get a chance while they were in the interior of Siberia.

Food Supplies Short

Lack of a bath was the least of their worries. Often their food supplies were short and Mr. England still believes the army fed the men horse meat and passed it off as beef.

"It was awful red," he remembered.

Then the Japanese, who were supposed to be friendly, were troublesome. Ferrell said they took great delight in attacking when you weren't looking.

But the Reds were the major opposition and sporadic fights occurred all the time. The biggest battle took place when the Reds sent along an armored train to blast the Americans out. The Americans were tipped off and not only took the train but took 366 prisoners. Twenty-two men in Co. K were killed. As a result of this fight and others England was among 13 men in the expedition who received a special medal from the government.

Another engagement long remembered came when the Reds drove the Americans out of their barracks. At other times they attacked the box cars in which the men lived most of the time.

England enlisted at Columbus, fully intending to go to Panama where it was comfortably warm. But when volunteers for Siberia were sought, he stepped out and was sent to about the coldest place on earth. It got as cold as 67 below. He and other reinforcements for the Americans who had been in Siberia since early in the war went first to Vladivostok and then 2,700 miles inside to Lake Baikal. The trip took 25 days on a train so slow that England said you could get out and walk and run and keep up with it.

For five months he and Ferrell and the others were at Lake Baikal. Then all the Americans were withdrawn and the division sent to the Philippines where the men endured the other extreme of temperature.

England was discharged in January of 1921 and returned to Marion where he has lived since.

Ferrell was caught in a fever outbreak in the Philippines after weathering the Siberian experience and has been in poor health since then. He enlisted at Ironton, O., in 1919.

The experiences of Ferrell and England were related in more detail in another article in The Star not long ago.

Back for the Snow

The sunshine we enjoyed early this week was particularly welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Justice of the Elite aparments. They went to Florida last fall and remained there until several weeks ago. They got back to Marion just in time to get a taste of what we've had the dubious honor of enjoying all winter. It was during the cold wave, when the thermometer dipped to 15 degrees above, April 11, that the Justices saw their first snowfall of the year.

Here's a Stumper

What would you do if someone walked up to you and asked, "Would you please tell me, where is Liberty Acres?" That didn't happen to us, but it might have. There is such a place and you've probably passed through it, not knowing anything about Liberty Acres. It's an allotment just south of the Marion city limits along the Green Camp pike.

We happened to come across the name in the list of property transfers in the office of County Recorder Paul H. Naher. We asked Ernest G. Wideman, who is familiar with the recorder's records, and he told us about Liberty Acres. The plot, he said, was laid our during war time and he thinks that's the explanation for it's name.

He also recalled that it was along about that time we were eating "liberty cabbage" instead of sauerkraut.

wielded the paste brush until midnight so that the last room would be finished before the Little House was proudly shown to visitors here for the Girl Scout spring conference two weeks ago.

Beaming and with a truly grateful lilt in their voices the women announce that all the work, all the materials, all the labor, have cost the Girl Scouts nothing.

Donations have poured in to the extent that it's been a matter so far of bulding back on acceptances until perspectives clear and a definite scheme of furnishing is decided on.

Here's a list of the donations so far, excluding work: wall paper, wall hanging, rubber plant for the main room, curtains, electric clock, mirror, stair treads, linoleum, outdoor sign, wrought iron fixture to hold the sign, paper towels and tissue, kitchen table and oilcloth, two floor lamps, flower pot stands, nine curtain rods, grass seed for the lawn, ceiling paper, three locks, kitchen paint, nine paper blinds, kitchen range, beaver board, plaster, light fixtures, cleaning supplies, phonograph, kitchen chairs, stand covers, ping pong table.

Girls Plan "Showers"

The girls and leaders have planned several "showers" for the Little House, one of drinking glasses, one of dish towels, and one of light bulbs. The stair treads were a "shower" gift from a group of younger girls who thought the bare stairs leading to the second floor was unsightly. Another group gave a large mirror for the bathroom.

One of the chief reasons for having a Little House is that it keeps the girls away from the traffic hazards encountered when the Girl Scout office was uptown, according to Miss Margaret Roundy, director.

That reason holds good not only in Marion, but in Youngstown, Toledo, Newark and Cleveland, believed the only other Ohio cities to have Little Houses.

Until March 30 the Girl Scouts had headquarters on the third floor of the Barnhart building on East Center street. The third-floor climb was no little achievement for women and girls who frequented the office several times a day, and there was only one room. Often there would be a troop meeting in one corner of the room, visiting parents talking with the director at her desk and leaders of troops would have to convene in the hallway. Bedlam resulted and constructive work was next to impossible.

The council is paying $10 a month rent for the Little House, $5 more than at the uptown headquarters, but Mrs. F. L. Thomas of 237 South Main street, the commissioner, and all the council members feel that the move was a wise one.

Plenty of Room

Now as many as five groups can meet at the same time, and visiting Girl Scout leaders and officials can be entertained in a pleasant, homelike atmosphere.

Any of the 250 Girl Scouts in Marion may use the Little House at any time for Girl Scout work. It is open to all who wish to make use of the library, to use the kitchen while working on cooking badges, for investiture services, handcraft work and so forth. Troop 2 members are decorating one room upstairs to get their interior decorating merit badges.

The Little House definitely is not to be a "hang out" for the girls, Miss Roundy said. It is open daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. for Girl Scout activities only and is not to be a loafing place after school.

Only two troops meet at the Little House, 11 and 2, all other troops meeting with their sponsoring organizations.

One day shortly after the Little House was rented a group of 16 girls, each armed with a rake, arrived early in the morning and spent most of the [illegible] the back yard and the small grass plot in front of the house, and laying a stepping-stone walk from the sidewalk to the office door.

This summer the backyard will be turned into a project for those girls who do not care for camping. Miss Roundy plans to mark the yard off into 12 or 15 beds where these girls may grow flowers and vegetables, earning their merit badges in gardening and at the same time improving the appearance of the yard.

Plans Training Classes

Also for those girls who are non-campers, there will be classes in stenciling, chair caning and other crafts, conducted in the Little House. This project will lead to hand-stenciled curtains for the Little House and attractive cane-bottomed chairs among the furnishings.

The summer program away from the Little House will be mostly camping, of which Mrs. Elmer E. Smith is chairman.

Day camps will be operated from June 24 to July 12, on Mondays and Tuesdays at Indian Mound in Vernon Heights and on Thursdays and Fridays at Lincoln park. Mrs. Richard Myers will be in charge.

On July 9 a group of 12 senior Girl Scouts will leave on a "gypsy trip" into Michigan and Canada. this will be an advanced camping trip, in charge of Miss Roundy, for experienced campers 15 years of age or older. The first 12 girls who sign up and who meet the camping requirements will be accepted.

Established camp at Camp John A. Owens will open Aug. 11 and continue through Aug. 23, with a possibility of extending through Sept. 1. Delaware, Upper Sandusky and Richwood Girl Scout groups have asked to send girls this year and if arrangements can be made the third week will be added to accommodate all who desire to participate. Miss Roundy will direct the camp.

To Attend Training Camp

Starting June 11 seven leaders of troops will go to a national training camp at Akron and upon their return will conduct a preday camp training period at the Little House for all leaders and a two-day session before established camp is opened. Their stay at the Akron camp will be financed with funds from the recent cooky sale, which brought about $320 into the council treasury.

Council members dream dreams of the time when the council can own a Little House but until that time comes, the Little House on East Columbia street is their "dream house."

The idea of having a Little House originated in Washington, D. C. about 10 years ago. Most of the Little Houses are spacious affairs, according to Miss Roundy, who has no idea where the name Little House originated or its meaning with relation to Girl Scout work.

Today's Little House is the work of a committee composed of Mrs. Ray R. King and Mrs. Ellis Houghton, chairmen, Mrs. R. G. Donley and Mrs. Clifford M. Howser, in charge of cleaning up the house, and Mrs. J. E. Oliphant, Mrs. Thomas and Miss Ruth Kramer, in charge of utilities.

The Little House was built in 1886 by Camden and Mary Stowe when they married. The bride was the first of seven daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Gugle to marry and for a wedding present her father staked off 66 feet at the rear of the lot he owned and gave it to her. The original window panes are in most of the windows.

The Little House has known tragedy too. It was a happy home for the bride and bridegroom for only a few years. Their two [illegible] died in infancy there, and in [illegible] the bride of five years died.

[illegible] Owned by Gugle [illegible]

Mr. Gugle, [illegible] of Mr. Gugle's descendants, and is now owned by Mrs. Florence B. Myers, youngest of the seven daughters. Mrs. Myers, who will be 72 next Monday, makes her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Shackelford of 221 Wildwood court.

When Mr. Gugle died the property went to two maiden daughters, Mrs. Myers' husband, the late Ralph L. Myers, bought it of the last of the two sisters shortly before her death.

John Gugle owned lot 134 in the first addition to the city of Marion. It extended from what is now Main street to the first alley east, along Columbia street. In 1876 he built the home now occupied by offices of Dr. Karl H. Feistkorn and Dr. H. R. Finney at 286 South Main street.

Mr. Gugle was one of the first boot and shoe manufacturers in the town. He built the small frame building just south of the Flea building on South Main street and operated a retail boot and shoe store on the ground floor and had his manufacturing business upstairs.

THOMPSON

...it would take a very long time ... Italy to supply even half her requirements from domestic sources.

...Copper has been found in Calabria and, of course, there is coppe... in Albania but Germany is also drawing on the latter deposit.

The truth is that it will be extremely difficult for Italy to fight a war with any ally other than one which has command of the seas, for nearly everything she needs in the way of basic resources must come from overseas.

Italy's financial situation is adverse. The budget deficit is not officially known but it is reported anywhere from 180 billion to 250 billion lira, which is tremendously high for a country as poor as Italy. At the end of 1936 the circulation of banknotes was 19 billion lira and in 1939 it rose to between 24 and 25 billion and business men were seriously concerned about it. At the end of March it was reduced to 22.5 billion.

The cost of living has gone up at least 20 per cent since the war, and attempts to reduce wastage in order to prevent inflation have failed.

Italy is in a dangerous position and she is playing a dangerous game. A powerful ally on the north can bring pressure upon her from land, while the navies of Britain and France can bring pressure from the sea. Her people, who have made tremendous sacrifices at home and abroad during sixteen years of domestic reorganization and foreign conquest, are tired and want peace.

They have rebuilt a large part of Italy; they have taken Abyssinia and Albania and fought Fascism's battle in Spain. They would like a rest. That is the universal opinion of every outsider with whom I have talked—and by outsiders I mean foreigners who have been for years in Italy and believe they know something about the country.

Harding and Three County Schools Set For Track Classics Tomorrow

Prexies To Compete at Mansfield; Prospect, Morral and Waldo Due at Annual Wesleyan Relays.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

ATTENTION of Marion city and county scholastic trackmen tomorrow will be divided between Mansfield and Delaware.

Harding High will send a full squad of cinder path artists to the Mansfield relays. Prospect, Morral and Waldo will be among the county schools represented at the ninth annual Ohio Wesleyan relays in Delaware.

Except for the efforts of Prospect in seeking a front rank berth of the Class B division at Delaware, tomorrow's competition is expected to be little more than a workout for the local youths.

Third Last Year

Last year the Prospect crew garnered 13 points to place third in the Ohio Wesleyan classic. The Kellermen finished behind Upper Arlington and Cleveland Fairview and the previous season, 1938, had collected 10 points for third place.

Four-time winner of the county relays, the down countians will be represented by a full complement of stars at Delaware. They will bid for top spots in the 440-yard relay and broad jump and hope to place in the shuttle hurdle, mile, two-mile and medley relays.

Coach Frank Furniss of Morral is planning to take several of his outstanding athletes to the meet. He will enter teams in the pole vault and probably the medley relay. Waldo's squad, under the direction of Coach John Zech, is expected to participate in several of the relay events. Neither school, however, will send a full squad.

High Class Foes

Harding's entrance in the Mansfield relays will bring the Presidents face-to-face with high calibre competition. Many Ohio schools and others from adjoining states will send entries. The local contingent will be composed of 20 to 25 athletes, who will embark early tomorrow under the wing of Coach George Niemi.

Only the relays and a dual meet at Galion, Tuesday, remain before Harding defends its track crown at Ashland, May 4. The locals breezed through last year's session at Galion with little difficulty. They are favored to repeat as NCO titleholders.

Following the NCO meet Coach Niemi will stack his proteges up against neighboring schools in dual sessions. He also hopes to be able to book several meets with Marion county schools for the Hardings reserve squad.

First Time as Rivals

Tomorrow is the first time in history that the Mansfield and Ohio Wesleyan classics come on the same day, thereby slashing both fields. A year ago each attracted more than 1,000 youths, but indications are that the Delaware competition will draw about 800, with 600 or more competing at Mansfield.

At Ohio Wesleyan, Columbus North will defend the title it won a year ago when it scored 32 points to nose out Springfield by half a point and break Toledo Scott's three-year reign. Upper Arlington, winner of the Class B crown the last four times out, will try again.

Cleveland East, last year's Mansfield victor with 27 points, is entered again, as is Cleveland East Tech, which finished just a half point off the winning pace, indicating that another close scrap for the laurels is in prospect.

The Mansfield events are not divided into Class A and Class B, and all events are on an individual basis except the relay races. The relays attracted 89 schools from five states last year.

The Wesleyan meet, which had 28 Class A and 34 Class B teams last year, had 20 in Class A and 33 in Class B on the 1940 list.

Diz Comes Through With Five-Hitter As "Nothing Ball" Baffles Reds, 4 to 2

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dizzy Dean always was and still is a nervy bounder.

That wasn't praise the way people said it five years ago when Jay Hanna (or is it Jerome Herman) was in his incomparable prime with the St. Louis Cardinals. But it is now.

Pitching on his nerve alone he still is one of the game's impressive figures. That great right arm of his has lost its whip but his heart never has faltered.

"Old Diz" toed the rubber again yesterday out in Chicago's Wrigley field and clamped down on Cincinnati's National league champions with a five-hit pitching performance that won for the Cubs, 4-2.

It didn't resemble even faintly those stirring Dean dramas of another era, but it was just as effective in the won and lost column. Diz got a bad start. He walked the first two batters he faced and made an error on the third to let in a run. Then he intentionally passed a third and another run was scored on a fly.

Dean Never Fears

Manager Gabby Hartnett no doubt was disturbed and the fans were, too. But if Dean ever quavered no one knew it. He came back to pitch shutout ball for the next eight frames, striking out only one batter but allowing only one walk. He kept sailing that "nothing ball" of his back and forth across the corners of the plate, curving it in and out and once in a while sandwiching in a straight high one that would have been blindingly fast in that other day.

It worked, anyway, and in the meantime the Cubs crowded big Paul Derringer, ace of the Reds, for 11 hits.

What Derringer couldn't do yesterday Gene Thompson must try again today. Claude Passeau, beaten by Thompson last week, is the Cubs' pitcher.

It was neither snow nor rain nor flood that stopped the Reds and Derringer yesterday for the first time this year—just the cunning right arm of a once great pitcher now on probation from the Wrigley doghouse.

They call it a nothing ball that he throws now, but the Reds know right well that it's nothing they could hit solidly. It isn't fast and it doesn't hop, skip, or jump, but when the Reds swung, only half of it was there.

Derringer In Dutch

Derringer meanwhile was having troubles. He got through the first inning on five pitched balls, all strikes, and survived the second despite loaded bases with none out. In the third the Cubs brought in three runs, all they needed, on a walk to Herman, single by Galan and Leiber, an infield out, and Cavaretta's line single.

The game was Derringer's first loss, outside the world series, since Aug. 10, when the same Cubs beat him.

With Cincinnati dropping out of a tie for first place in the National league, the Brooklyn Dodgers took over sole possession of the lead by beating the Phillies 3-1 for their fifth victory without a defeat. Hugh Casey parcelled out five hits.

The New York Giants continued winning by battering the Boston Bees 9-1. Bill Lohrman was at the top of his form in scattering six hits and striking out nine. Three Boston hurlers gave the Giants 11 blows.

St. Louis' slugging Cardinals rolled up 22 hits against Pittsburgh but barely edged out the Pirates 10-9. Seven pitchers saw service in the melee.

The Cleveland Indians continued to set the pace for the American league with Bob Feller getting credit for his second triumph as the Tribe topped the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

A two-run homer by Pinky Higgins in the eighth inning gave Buck Newsom and the Detroit Tigers a 4-2 decision over the St. Louis Browns, who had taken a two-run lead in the first and held on to it doggedly behind Elden Auker's submarine-balling.

A double by Gee Walker with the bases loaded climaxed a six-run ninth inning that brought the Washington Senators a 7-6 verdict over the Philadelphia Athletics. George Caster had held the Senators scoreless until they notched one run in the sixth.

Baseball Togs Cost Plenty

It costs a big league baseball club around $5,000 to outfit the 20-odd players on its squad for a season. Don Padgett, St. Louis Cardinal catcher, is shown with his uniform (each player has one for home and one for road wear) and equipment that cost around $120. Players pay for their own shoes and gloves. Bats cost $2, lightweight underwear $3.50, and windbreakers $10.

TROUBLE AGAIN DOGS CHAMPIONS AT A. B. C.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 26 — Trouble again is dogging at the heels of champions competing in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Ned Day of Chicago, national singles match champion, is the latest to come under the A.B.C. jinx. The 30-year-old kegler, regarded as one of the all-time bowling greats, was forced to cancel his doubles and singles schedules today because of a serious ankle infection.

Less Fuller, Day's partner in the doubles, may team with Hank Marino, former match champion, in the event. Marino's partner, Billy Sixty, Milwaukee sports writer and bowling ace, suffered a broken vertebra in an automobile accident a month ago.

NO-HIT JINX BEATEN AS FELLER WINS 3-1

Bob Overcomes Old Hex and Washes Out Sox.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 26 — Bob Feller, the 21-year-old Iowa boy regarded by many as the best pitcher in baseball, has passed one of the big tests of his meteoric career.

The no-hit jinx, hovering over Bob since the season's opener in Chicago, was squelched yesterday as he pitched eight-hit ball to beat the White Sox, 3 to 1. Bob struck out eight, gave only two passes and was in serious trouble in only the ninth inning—when the Sox got their only run.

Feller was knocked out of the box by Detroit here last Sunday in his second start of the year, but the victory yesterday showed that he suffered no physical or mental ill effects from the no-hitter.

Johnny Allen was slated to face Chicago today, with Lefty Lee the visitors' mound nominee. The Indians leave tomorrow for a three-game series in Detroit and then start east.

Home runs by Rollie Hemsley and Jeff Heath gave Feller his victory. The catcher poled his in the second and Heath hit for the circuit in the eighth. The Tribe picked up its other run in the seventh as Ken Keltner walked and scored all the way from first on Bob Kennedy's wild throw on Hemsley's bunt.

Becker, Sneeze Achu Booked for Top Shovel Bout Monday

George Becker of New York City and Hawaii's Walter (Sneeze) Achu, the pair who treated local mat fans to the ultimate in thrills when they met here several weeks ago, are booked to return Monday night for the featured wrestling match on the Marion Steam Shovel gym card.

Becker, unbeaten in three appearances, stopped Indian Bill Cazzell of Laredo, Tex., last week. The New Yorker is fast becoming a favorite among local mat-goers by virtue of his fast and aggressive, yet clean, ring tactics.

He was the victor in the previous duel with Achu. But the Hawaiian was the victim of a tough break. Sneeze hurled himself in a head first dive at Becker, and, when the New Yorker sidestepped, he went sailing through the ropes. Achu's fall to the floor kayoed him and he lost the match because he was unable to continue.

Recovered Rapidly

Achu last week demonstrated that even though the spill stopped him that evening it left him with no permanent impairment. He showed plenty of rugged action in feating Bob Anderson of Dayton. A squat but wiry individual, he relied on a little of the ju jitsu methods to get the edge on the Daytonian.

Returning for the semi-windup is the popular Stacey Hall, former Ohio State university athlete. Stacey has been packing them in around these parts ever since he left the campus and he continues to be an excellent drawing card. Hall until recently was a claimant to the light heavyweight title but vacated the throne in a bid for junior heavyweight honors.

Stacey's competition will be furnished by a newcomer, Tiger Tasker of Australia. If Tasker lives up to his advance reputation, fans may expect to see a human whirlwind in action when he takes the ring.

He's supposed to be one of the toughest hombres ever imported from the spot down under. He's a bewhiskered gentleman noted among fans as a mat meatie.

The Becker-Achu main go will be a 90-minute duel while the semi-final will be over the 45-minute route. Young Scotty of Louisville, another newcomer, has been booked for one of the preliim spots but local promoters today were still seeking a foe for him.

SCOUT MEMBERSHIP INCREASES REPORTED

New Troops in Marion and Waldo Listed.

Large gains in membership and troop organization in the Boy Scout movement in Marion city and county were reported at a meeting of Marion district leaders at the scout office on East Center street last night.

Cecil Gabler, chairman of the district organization committee, reported that two new troops have been chartered in recent weeks, Troop 7 at the First Reformed church and Troop 17 at Waldo, and that several other troops are being organized, including a new troop at Prospect.

Fred P. Strother, Harding area scout executive, reported more than 50 per cent of the goals set for the Marion district for 1940 have already been met and he predicted the year will be one of the most successful in the recent history of scouting in Marion. Organization of several troops is nearing completion in the county and several other troops probably will be organized next fall, he reported.

Another favorable report was given by Richard Miller, Marion district commissioner, who said interest and enthusiasm has greatly improved in recent months among both scouts and adult leaders.

The 11 leaders who attended the meeting agreed that while large gains have been made recently, there is still need for even further development in the district. It was pointed out that there are now 340 scouts in the city whereas there are apparently some 200 other youths who have expressed a desire to become scouts but have been unable to find a suitable troop to join. A report along this line was given by Turley Vance, a member of the Glenwood school faculty, who said a survey he recently made at the school indicated there are 33 students who desire a troop.

Arrangements also were discussed for the Boy Scouts' participation in the annual Memorial Day observance here. The next meeting of district leaders will be held at Camp John A. Owens south of Marion June 6.

is only an agreement between the company and its employes and not between the company and union. It is not a valid company-union contract because it was not approved at the union's international office in Indianapolis, Ind., Mr. Coleman contends.

The present contract calls for an hourly wage of 47½ cents for drivers and 40 cents for helpers. It was to continue until Jan. 1, 1941. Mr. Coleman reported that the proposed contract calls for a wage increase but declined to divulge the amount.

Company officials contend that the contract under which they have been operating since early last year is a bona fide wage-hour agreement with the local. It was signed and approved by officials and representatives of the local and remains in force until 1941, company officials maintain.

The strike came at the close of a meeting last night when union officials and company representatives were unable to reach an agreement. Union members went on picket duty at the plant today and operations were at a standstill. Representatives of both sides were reluctant to indicate what may be the next development.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES ON GREEN CAMP QUESTION

A ruling that the Green Camp township trustees may legally contribute $1,000 to improvement of state route No. 739 through Green Camp was handed down today by Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert, The Associated Press reported.

A request for the ruling was made for the township trustees by Paul D. Michel, county prosecuting attorney. The trustees may contribute to the improvement in Green Camp because it involves a state route, the attorney general ruled. If it had been strictly a village project the trustees could not contribute, according to the ruling.

WOMAN OVERCOME BY SUDDEN ILLNESS

Mrs. Carolyn Bell, 93, in Hospital; Condition Serious.

Mrs. Carolyn Bell, 93, of 265 South Main street suffered a stroke of apoplexy at her home this morning and was reported to be in serious condition at City hospital.

The attending physician said she had not regained consciousness since the stroke.

Mrs. Bell, who lives alone in an apartment at the South Main street address, apparently suffered the stroke as she was arising about 8:30 a. m. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cozart, who live in an apartment above Mrs. Bell's, said they heard a loud noise similar to that made by a person falling. When they failed to get any response to calls, they summoned a physician and police. The officers forced their way into the apartment and found Mrs. Bell on the floor beside her bed.

CHARGES SAPOSS URGED SABOTAGE OF JUSTICE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26. — David Saposs, labor board economic adviser, was accused before the Smith committee today of having urged trial examiners to "sabotage every American conception of justice and fair play."

The charge was made to the committee, conducting a special house investigation of the board, by Mapes Davidson, who resigned last month as a trial examiner because he said, the board fostered communists "and kindred radicals."

Davidson testified that Saposs had told a group of trial examiners at a meeting here early in March how to build up a record against employers in cases where no direct evidence of worker domination existed.

"Dr. Saposs' words were nothing but an open invitation to sabotage every American conception of justice and fair play," the heavy-set witness declared.

WHEELER WON'T RUN IN SECOND POSITION

Senator Eliminates Himself as Roosevelt Mate.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26—A definite statement by friends of Senator Wheeler, Democrat of Montana that he would not accept the Democratic vice presidential nomination put a check today on capital speculation over a possible Wheeler-Roosevelt ticket.

Wheeler himself has said repeatedly that he was not available for second place, but recent callers at his office have led some Democrats to believe he was being sounded out for the vice presidency on a third term ballot.

Wheeler has an invitation to see President Roosevelt on the latter's return to Washington. The Montana senator, who was the late Robert La Follette's running mate on a third party ticket in 1924, is expected to seek the Democratic presidential nomination if Mr. Roosevelt does not run.

But another western senator was more receptive to vice presidential discussion. Senator Thomas of Utah said that he would "love to run with the President and battle for his cause in the west."

While Democratic speculation continued to center on Mr. Roosevelt's intentions, a new Republican presidential possibility—Gov. Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania— was ready to strike what some party men described as the keynote of his pre-convention campaign.

James, elected for a four-year term in 1938, will address the Indiana Republican Editorial association at Indianapolis tonight. It will be broadcast over an NBC hookup at 10:30 p. m.

GIRL STUDENT VICTIM OF MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING

By The Associated Press

ABINGTON, Pa., April 26.—A killer crept silently onto the porch of a home in this suburban community last night, peered through a window at a peaceful family scene, then shot 16-year-old Edith Snyder to death as she pored over her high school studies.

The attractive, chestnut-haired girl arose with a scream as a bullet tore through the window and pierced her heart. She took a few steps, then fell dead in the arms of her 17-year-old brother, Edwin.

Her mysterious assailant ran to a curb, jumped into an automobile and sped away.

Although Miss Snyder's family could assign no possible motive, investigators worked on the theory the slaying might have been the climax of an adolescent love affair. They said they found her handbag stuffed with 100 notes, such as pass between a boy and girl at school.

SWEDEN ENTERS DIPLOMATIC DISCUSSIONS

Sweden moved into the center of German diplomatic attention as authorized Nazi sources expressed apprehension that the largest Scandinavian state is under pressure from Britain and France. It has been reported that the British blockade of Narvik (1) has prevented Germany from getting needed iron ore through the port. The other outlet for Sweden's iron ore area at Kiruna (2) is Lulea (3) at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia. Reports of German troop concentrations at northern ports have led to rumors of a drive on Stockholm (4). Distances to Stockholm are indicated on this Associated Press map. British forces were reported retreating after fighting with Nazis for control of Trondheim (5), key city to the fertile valleys of the south of Norway, around Oslo (6).

Allied and Nazi Norway Clashes Not Yet Decisive

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The struggle for possession of the strategic port-railhead of Trondheim, one of the key positions of the battle of Norway, has developed rapidly with two Nazi forces making a rather spectacular dash northward yesterday to reinforce the German troops which hold the disputed port.

Such operations among the towering mountains of Norway are bound to have a sensational tinge, and it is perhaps wise to emphasize that what has happened thus far is in the nature of preliminary maneuvering for position.

Mussolini Watchful

The result of the battle of Norway likely will be to broaden the war. And there can be no one more keenly alive to this fact than Signor Mussolini, whose future relations with the warring nations continue to provide one of Europe's big question marks.

Some observers believe a Nazi victory in Scandinavia would draw Il Duce to Hitler's side immediately, but I doubt that. A Nazi defeat is much more likely to force the Fascist leader to a quick decision.

I figure this on the basis that it is in Italy's interest to stay "non-belligerent" just so long as possible.

It's almost certain that a German defeat in Norway would impel Herr Hitler to lash out at the Balkans in an effort to assure supplies to relieve the pressure of the allied blockade. That probably would draw Mussolini in, and perhaps against his axis partner, for the Italian chief has vowed to defend this important area.

Common Sense in Italy

It looks like a matter of plain horse-sense for Italy to stay out of the war at this juncture—and Mussolini is blessed with a lot of common sense. One excellent reason why he shouldn't tangle with the allies lies in the relative strengths of the Italian navy and the combined allied naval force.

If Italy went to war against the allies, they would blockade the Italian coast, cutting Italy off from the vital sea-borne supplies. The British main fleet is in the Mediterranean.

Control of the Mediterranean is the big thing in Italian eyes at the moment and it is interesting to note that French Premier Reynaud the other day said France was seeking a "Mediterranean entente" with Italy and Spain. That might give hope of reconciliation.

PROBE WELCOMED BY SCHOOL HEAD

Supt. Beatty Wants Delaware Situation Cleared Up.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., April 26—Supt. Rose Beatty asserted today that she would "welcome a fair, impartial investigation" to clear up charges that immorality and degeneracy flourish among inmates of the Ohio girls' industrial school.

"If there is anything wrong here, I'm the one who wants to know about it," Mrs. Beatty declared. "These charges are a reflection on the school. The girls and their families are concerned about it. For their sake and the sake of the school this matter should be cleared up."

Meanwhile, it was disclosed in Dayton that two state welfare department employes spent two days there seeking information about a Dayton girl reported to have given birth to a child in the industrial school.

The investigators, Victor Monte, London prison farm inspector, and Walter Bellar, Ohio penitentiary guard captain, were expected to report late this week to welfare department officials on the outcome of the Dayton inquiry and others of a similar nature.

"There is nothing wrong at the school, as far as I know," Mrs. Beatty said, adding, however, that with a "class" of more than 600 girls "it is impossible for one superintendent to know everything that happens."

She considered asking Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood to order an inquiry into the current allegations, but doubted that it was her place to decide whether such a probe was necessary.

Earlier this week, Sherwood discredited reports that inmates of the school were "recruited" for vice houses.

The women's state committee of Ohio on welfare, health and education asked Gov. Bricker yesterday to investigate the rumors and dispel them if proven false.

Eleven allied airplanes were destroyed on the ground.

Aiding the Nazi land drive, German warplanes bombarded allied troop concentrations, marching columns and traffic centers.

As for the allied air war against the Germans, the high command said several German planes were damaged by splinters during a British attack on an airport near Trondheim while Oslo was attacked during the night though without military damage.

FOE FOR OFFICE NAMES WHETRO IN COURT SUIT

NAZI SPY STORY FAILS TO SAVE MURDERER

By The Associated Press

OSSINING, N. Y., April 26—Gus Schweinberger told a startling story of international intrigue —but it didn't save him.

Schweinberger, a 33-year-old German, died in Sing Sing's electric chair last night soon after he told authorities he had rejected a Nazi plea that he become a spy in the United States.

"The Nazis wanted me to be a spy in America, but I would not be," said the convicted murderer of Fred Ludwig, a Yonkers, N. Y., laborer with whose wife he had been infatuated.

Because Schweinberger entered this country in 1926, prison authorities were inclined to take his story lightly.

CHAPTER 20

Dormant Domesticity

As soon as Brenda got home, ... called her up.

"Brenda!" His voice became urgent. "I must see you. Where can we meet?"

"You might come here," she suggested.

"And have the Ormond popping over, or Mrs. Rosttetor drifting in and out of the room. No, I'll tell you. You know the old house which closes The Street at the south end? Well, I'll slip around in back of it and in about half an hour you come. I must know if there's anything in that letter about Linda!"

Brenda, remorsefully aware of unwritten chapters awaiting her, was about to refuse; then an impish desire to foil Miss Ormond, combined with a genuinely friendly wish to comfort Hugh Saltus, dictated an assent. Half an hour later she edged her slim self self through a break in the white palings which enclosed the old house, and trotted around in back where Hugh awaited her.

* * *

Adelaide Rostletor was the world's worst housekeeper; or perhaps the world's worst manager, Brenda reflected. The only meal which made any pretense to being served on time was breakfast; and Isobel had confided that only long and painful discipline of both mistress and maid had achieved that.

Luncheon of course did not matter. Quite frequently Grenadine brought Brenda's up to her on a tray with the announcement that Mis' Rosttetor had gone out.

Dinner was supposed to be at six-thirty. It never was. Sometimes Grenadine beat lustily on the gong at ten minutes past six —if she happened to be going to a movie with "ma gen'lemun frien'." More often it was close to seven when the family assembled about the table.

Adelaide's vagueness extended to the food, too. Several times she had forgoten to order meal, often a meal would be distinguished by a preponderance of starchy dishes, or two or three green vegetables and not potatoes, once by two kinds of dessert.

The house was untidy and while not actually disorderly, it lacked the exquisite neatness to which Brenda had been accustomed.

"I wonder what keeps them here," she mused. "It's not that Adelaide charges such a low board; it's about the average, I should say. Eric and Mac have been here five years, Isobel three. I wonder why they stay;"

She put the question to Isobel at the first opportunity. The pianist looked shocked.

"Leave Adelaide? Leave The Shortest Street?" she exclaimed, as one who denounced a critic of Paradise.

Brenda asked sturdily: "Well, why not? What do you find here that makes up for the unpunctuality, the queer meals, the general happy-go-lucky atmosphere of the house?"

"But it's just that atmosphere which makes it so delightful! I never agreed with that woman lecturer who said she was tired of the fearful monotony of never doing the same thing twice. I don't call that monotony. I call it interesting living! When I drive in at the end of the day I'm simply wild to know what has happened while I've been gone: whether Adelaide has put a tramp to sleep in the attic bedroom, and we all may be murdered in our sleep; whether Grenadine (or Adelaide, I never know whether they work in unison or alone) has decided to have roast beef and veal cutlets and no salad, or ice-cream and pudding and no meat at all; whether I'll find the dining room furniture in the living room and the living room furniture in the dining room——"

A Dear And A Darling

"Not really!"

"Yes once we all came home and were confronted by a nicely set table to the right of the hall. Adelaide said it came to her that it would make a nice change—and it did!"

"Adelaide is" — Brenda began, then mindful of the many kindnesses shown her by her landlady substituted for the word on her lips——"a dear!"

"A dear is just what she is!" Isobel confirmed warmly. "A dear and a darling. For all her vagueness and queer ways, she has something—a sort of intuition that is little short of miraculous. Just let one of us under this roof be in trouble, and Adelaide knows it. Usually she knows the way out for us, too; usually," she repeated colorlessly.

"I take it that something is bothering you; something that even the efficient Adelaide can't help!"

"Only the usual thing," was the moody reply.

Brenda waited. She had discovered that a sympathetic silence drew more confidence than all the reassuring sentences in the world. It was true in this case. Presently Isobel burst out: "I'm sick and tired of being a second-rate musician! I want my own home, Brenda, my husband, my—my children! I never see a linen sale that I don't go and price cunning little breakfast cloths and napkins, wonder if I've forgotten the convent hem my grandmother taught me to do! I know exactly how I want to furnish my living room, just where to put the couch and the biggest armchair. I want to plan clever little meals that are properly balanced. I even"—she slid a shamefaced glance at her astonished listener—"I even want to wash dishes! A little white enamel dishpan—oval, you know—with lots of foamy suds; and a mop, because I'll have to keep my fingers from getting stiff. And vinegar in the rinse water for the glassware . . . Brenda, did you know that if you put a little vinegar in the rinse water for the glassware it will make it sparkle like diamonds?"

Brenda said soberly that no, she hadn't known that important fact.

"And over the sink I'd have a little shelf to keep toilet articles on: a good hand lotion, you know, some cold cream, a pair of rubber gloves. Housekeeping," stated Miss Burke wistfully, "should be both a science and an art. It has been degraded from its high estate into sheer drudgery. And just when women have everything to work with, too! Darling little glass baking dishes, gay enamel pans, electric refrigerators ——!" She sighed more deeply than before. "I could make a home out of two sunny rooms!"

"I believe you could," Brenda assented. Then the spirit of altruism which never slumbered deeply within her awoke and reared its head. "There must be hundreds—there must be thousands of young men in this town who would adore a home like that, a wife like that."

"If there are they've failed to mention it to me," was the brief comment.

Monkey Wrenches

"But Isobel, you don't talk like this before—before other people! Here I've lived in the same house with you almost a month, and this is the first time I ever dreamed you'd like—you are so domestic! Do you," she ventured, "ever tell Eric and—and Mac about your ideas?"

Isobel's eyes, which had been more gray than green, now became more green than gray.

"Not likely! Eric has social aspirations. He'll never think of marrying until he can have a ten-room house and three servants. Mac—"

"Mac?" prompted the wily schemer gently.

"Mac thinks I have real talent as a pianist. He thinks it's my duty to cultivate it," she said drearily.

Brenda gave her a comforting pat and let her seek her own room. The agile brain beneath the smoky curls was already busy with plans in Isobel's behalf. She was a devout believer in the saying: "The Lord helps him who helps himself." Seldom had she turned her efforts toward the achievement of some particular bit of activity that Fate had not stepped in to assist her.

So it was now, though even the optimistic Miss Burnham had never dreamed of the enormous shove Providence was to give her plans.

She began her campaign by throwing any number of small and inconspicuous monkey wrenches into the already creaking household machinery. Twice she offered to telephone the morning orders and omitted the most important items thereon. The resulting dinners were anemic. Adelaide was so used to being the culprit in these cases that she apologized vaguely for the mishaps, not realizing that the new boarder was the real culprit. And Brenda sat with the face of a pious cherub and let her do it.

Several times when the landlady was away for the day, Brenda carelessly instructed Grenadine about the cleaning.

"Where the dickens are my pencils—the stuff I was working on last night?" Mac shouted from his door the first evening after this occurred.

"And where," Eric demanded wrathfully, "are my neckties? Somebody's been tidying up my bureau and I can't find a confounded thing! Grenadine—"

Adelaide came hurrying up the stairs. "Don't blame Grenadine," she begged in an agitated whisper. "It's my fault; I went off and left her with the cleaning to do. And she's planning to go to the movies tonight—somebody gave her a dollar, she says—and she's in a terrible hurry to get dinner on. Overlook it this one time like the dear boys you are," she pleaded, "and tomorrow I'll find everything—straighten up everything! Please!"

When Adelaide said "please!" on a helpless, interrogative note there was nothing to do but assure her that it didn't matter in the least.

Electric Lense Used by AP on Telephoto Units

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, April 26—An electrical lens, a new photographic device for wirephoto, the pictures sent by wire, was announced today by The Associated Press.

This electrical lens does for wire pictures what panchromatic film did for photography a few years ago—eliminates the formless blacks and replaces them with natural details.

A difficulty in pictures sent by wire has been that at the receiving end, where the electricity was changed back into light, the film failed to give good reproduction of the darker areas of the original photograph.

An example is a new photograph of Postmaster General Farley, wearing a black coat. In the ordinary wirephoto this coat was little better than a dark smear. But the same photo received with the electric lens shows clearly the texture of the weave and even the precisely tailored threads in the coat buttons.

Details in the tangles of plane and train wrecks show up more distinctly. In a photograph of the April 8 Detroit gas explosion, a street scene with a large crowd in the background, the electric lens brought up distant faces so that they would have been identifiable.

The new principle is so flexible that it could be adjusted to give a Negro a white face while preserving unchanged the usual light-colored portions of the photograph.

The lens is an improvement on nature in that it will make rays of light do things never before possible. However, it is useful only for pictures which have been transmitted electrically.

The invention was conceived and perfected in The Associated Press research laboratory by James C. Barnes, Alfred S. Gano and Charles W. Hubley, electrical engineers, working under direction of H. M. Biele, AP chief engineer.

The lens has been used in New York to receive wire pictures from all parts of the United States. It is expected to be in production soon, and to go to wirephoto newspapers in about three months.

School Bicycle Safety Parade Plans Completed

700 Club Members Expected To Take Part in Saturday Event; Charters To Be Presented.

Arrangements were completed today for a bicycle parade and safety program in which some 700 members of bike clubs in the city schools are expected to participate.

Members of all clubs have been asked to assemble on grounds of their respective schools at 9 o'clock and to report in a group at Central not later than 9:30.

Following the parade, about 11 o'clock, there will be an assembly on the Central grounds at which several city officials will speak on bicycle safety. Members of the City P.-T. A. council's safety committee which sponsored organization of the clubs will present charters to each club and lead the groups in pledges to obey the clubs' safety rules. Fourteen clubs are now organized in the city's public schools and all 14 will receive charters at the program.

Line of March

The parade will start at Central Junior High school at 10 o'clock, proceed east on Center street to Baker street, south on Baker to Church street, west on Church to Orchard street and north on Orchard and Campbell streets to the Central grounds.

Polo Game at 2 p. m.

In the afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, there will be an exhibition polo game on the Central grounds in which more than 20 representatives of the Shelby Cycle Co. will take part. The Shelby group ranks among the most highly skilled in the country.

Youthful bicyclists will ride four abreast in the parade and several clubs are planning to decorate their vehicles to add to the color of the affair. Another colorful feature of the parade will be the group of Shelby riders who will bring all types of ancient and modern cycles, including tandems, four-seaters, high-wheelers and special types made by the company for particular uses. Many of these riders will be costumed in sports clothes of the period which their bicycles represent.

Band in Parade

The parade units also will include city and P.-T. A. officials, the Harding High school band and a state highway patrol escort. Members of the Marion Cycle club, composed of motorcycle enthusiasts, and members of the schoolboy patrol units in the city also will escort the parade and will assist police in handling traffic and crowds of spectators. Members of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs also will assist in carrying out the day's activities.

Plans for the parade and other sections of the program were worked out by the P.-T. A.'s safety committee of which Deputy Sheriff W. H. Willis is chairman. Mr. Willis will serve as marshal for the parade and will be assisted in organizing the various units by Cecil Gabler, visiting teacher in the city schools, and members of the safety committees of the P.-T. A. groups of the various schools.

ACTOR'S WIFE FLIES TO EDISON FOR RITES

Mrs. Otto Kruger Due from California Today.

EDISON, O., April 26—Mrs. Otto Kruger, wife of the motion picture actor, was expected here some time today for the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Oliver J. Olney, who died yesterday morning after a brief illness.

She left Los Angeles by plane yesterday and was expected to be in Detroit last night, from where she will come to Edison with her brother, James McManamy. Her step-father said he did not believe Mr. Kruger would accompany her.

Mr. and Mrs. Kruger, both stage players at the time, met by chance at the Equity association headquarters in New York City in 1918, according to scrapbook records, and after a short courtship they were married. At that time Mrs. Kruger, who was Miss Mae McManamy, was appearing in a play, "The Five Million." After the birth of their child she retired from the stage.

Her mother and step-father were married eight years ago, after meeting at the home of friends near Columbus. For about 15 years Mrs. Olney was a stylist for the Pictorial Review and McCall magazines and traveled throughout the country. Mr. Olney always has farmed. They lived in Michigan before moving south of Mt. Gilead about a year ago. Mrs. Olney suffered a stroke and because of her health the couple moved to Edison two months ago, giving up farming.

Mrs. Kruger was here about a month ago to visit her mother.

C. OF C. MERCHANTS GROUP PLANS TUESDAY MEETING

Another in the series of luncheon meetings sponsored by the retailers group of the Chamber of Commerce has been called for Tuesday noon at Hotel Harding.

Co-chairman Oscar Lusch and C. A. McGrew of the Chamber group have invited the following merchants to attend: Leonard Young, R. H. Sechrist, Floyd Stull, George Frank, Russell Lake, George Nelson, Francis Blake, Cicero Zachman, James Crowley, Fred Ellery, Paul F. Markert, Frank Brabson, W. A. Rohn, G. H. Ginsberg, Clyde Faust, A. L. Loeb, Jerry Passen and R. E. O'Connor.

Two similar group meetings were held previously and resulted in several valuable suggestions, Louis E. Michel, Chamber secretary, reported.

HERDS TO BE CULLED TO IMPROVE DAIRY STOCK

Indiana dairymen are in a position to dispose of unprofitable and undesirable cows during the next few years and replace them with animals of their own raising, according to a recent survey conducted by Hoosier cow-testers. For every 10 cows more than two years of age, there are 5.7 animals less than 24 months old on approximately 600 farms whose herds comprise 18,315 animals which were reported in the survey, according to G. A. Williams, Purdue university.

This is a very encouraging report. It means these dairymen can dispose of inferior individuals as the young stock freshens and not face the serious problem of knowing where they can purchase disease-free replacements. Such a condition usually insures a more rigid system of culling than would take place if purchases had to be made from herds with health records in question. Heifers raised on the home farm, the production of whose dams and perhaps grand dams is known usually prove to be higher producers than animals purchased frequently from herds of unknown ancestry.

WILLKIE GIVES OWN VERSION OF LIBERAL

Utilities Head Disagrees with Roosevelt's Definition.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 26—Declaring Marquis Wendell L. Willkie disagrees with what he says is President Roosevelt's definition of a "liberal."

Addressing members of the American Newspaper Publishers association last night, the Commonwealth & Southern Corp. president said Mr. Roosevelt had raised the issue of "liberalism" in a recent speech.

"From his viewpoint," said Willkie, who is considered a possible dark horse candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, "he made the issue very simple.

"All new dealers are liberal; all others are reactionary."

Willkie declared that all definitions of the word must include:

"The liberal is a man who believes in freedom for himself and for other people."

The utilities leader and William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corp., joined in a charge that the New Deal has unjustly punished business to the detriment of the whole country.

Willkie said the New Deal had "drained the vitality and confidence" from industry and has turned to "denounce it for its failure to recover and make wild charges concerning a 'strike' of capital."

EVANGELIST TO BE AT WESLEY CHURCH TONIGHT

Rev. Zike Continuing Series of "Full Salvation" Meetings.

Rev. C. E. Zike, evangelist from Akron, who is speaking in the "full salvation" meetings under sponsorship of the Marion County Holiness association, spoke last night at Calvary Evangelical church from Romans 6:5, "If we have been planted together in the likeness of His death, we shall be also in the likeness of His resurrection."

Tonight he will preach at 7:30 at Wesley Methodist church and Saturday night he will be at Asbury Methodist church. Both sermons will be on the theme, "The Christ-Likeness of the Christian."

That the blood of Christ can not or will not save from all sin is next to blasphemy, Rev. Zike declared last night. Salvation is obtained by the way of humiliation, even as Christ suffered humiliation, he said, adding that only as people consent to die to sin is there for them the guarantee of a present spiritual resurrection and life.

MOTHER STAGES SIT-DOWN IN OFFICE OF SCHOOL

Demands Justice for Her Son's Smashed Nose.

By The Associated Press

HIGHLANDVILLE, Mo., April 26.—Mrs. Gladys G. Lowe is conducting a one-mother sit-down strike in this little Ozarks hilltop town to "get justice" for her son's smashed nose.

Phillip Lowe's nose was broken in a fight at the consolidation school March 21. Phillip, 15, accused an 18-year-old boy of picking the fight.

Mrs. Lowe insisted that the older boy be punished. Andrew Howard, Christian county prosecutor, investigated and reported he could find no basis for filing charges.

So Mrs. Lowe went to see Stanford Kight, school superintendent. She sat in his office all last night.

She said "too many things have gone wrong down here. The superintendent is trying to run the whole country and not attending to his school duties.

"The bully who picked on my boy is a son of a school board member. That's why I can't get justice."

Speeding, Disobeying Stop Signs Called Big Causes of Accidents

State Patrol Station Head Tells Kiwanians These Violations Cause Most Serious Mishaps.

...ing and failure to observe ... are the two factors ...cause "nearly all" of the ...traffic accidents in Mar... and vicinity, Corp. W. ...mer, officer in charge of ...ville highway patrol sub-sta..., told members of the ... Kiwanis club yesterday.

Speaking at the Ohio theater following a luncheon meeting of the club at Hotel Marion, Corp. Mariner explained that among the various causes of accidents listed on reports at the sub-station, speeding and failure to obey stop signs strongly predominate. Frequently, the most serious accidents result from a combination of the two violations, involving a car traveling at a high rate of speed on a main highway and another auto pulling onto the main highway from a side road without stopping, he pointed out.

"Insurance protects us against property damage claims resulting from our mistakes but it doesn't bring back the lives that are lost by our carelessness," he declared.

Corp. Mariner also explained how accident reports are made by the state patrolmen and he discussed a "selective enforcement" policy which the patrol follows. Under this policy, maps are kept showing the location and time of all accidents in the district and patrolmen are assigned to special traffic duty whenever the number of accidents shows an increase in some specific locality. The aim of the patrol, he explained, is not to arrest all traffic law violators but to warn all offenders and to arrest those whose violations are so flagrant they might result in an accident.

Walter Grumblatt presided at both the luncheon at the hotel and the program at the theater and introduced Corp. Mariner. Guests included Dr. V. V. Hackley of South Bend, Ind., and W. E. Bigler of Cleveland.

Mr. Knowles announced that on May 3 Kirkpatrick grange will furnish a program for Bowling Green grange and that next Sunday afternoon Grand Prairie grange will observe rural life Sunday at Likens Methodist church. He appointed Kirk Moreland and Lloyd Hart managers of the grange baseball team. Announcement was made that the Marion Kiwanis club will again sponsor a pet lamb show at the 1940 Marion county fair. # SOCIAL SECURITY NOTICES MAILED

Persons Becoming Eligible for Benefits Being Notified.

Persons who may become eligible for monthly payments under the social security act in the second quarter of this year are being notified of their rights under the amended program of old-age and survivors insurance.

Letters are being mailed to many persons in the counties served by the Marion field office of the social security board, Harold W. Kramer, manager of the field office in Marion, announced today.

Outlining the plan which is being used to inform older workers of the possibility of obtaining monthly payments Mr. Kramer said, "We know from the original applications for social security account numbers what residents of our area will reach age 65 during April, May and June of this year. Our wage records also show which of these persons have earned sufficient pay in employment covered by the social security act to qualify for monthly payments on retirement at or after age 65.

"Persons receiving these letters may have no intention of retiring. If regularly employed they will earn more than their monthly payment amounts after retirement. But such persons may want to know about the amount they will receive, if they retire. In some cases it may be desirable to file the claims for monthly benefits at this time, even though retirement comes months later. Some workers who were over 65 when the act went into effect may retire this quarter and receive benefits, if they have earned $50 or more in commerce or industry during each of the last six quarters."

DICKY was at my father's side before he had reached the door, imperatively gesturing to Lillian and me to fall back a bit.

"I want to go up those stairs first," he said respectfully but firmly. "I want to make sure the guards are on the job. You know Jack Leslie may have sent more of his beauties over to see what became of his first emissaries."

"If he has I am sure my men have taken care of them," my father said dryly. "But I see your point and grant it. If there is any trouble up there, you can get Dicky's low query, "All clear?"

Unbolting the door to the stairs, he opened it a crack and peered upward, then began to ascend stealthily, motioning us to remain where we were.

I did not dare even to breathe a protest, but my heart thumped heavily as I watched him go up the stairway to the top door, on which he knocked with five short raps.

All Clear

I breathed freely again as the door opened promptly, and one of my father's men in the doorway gave an affirmative answer to

My husband dashed down again, and put his hand under my father's elbow.

"Please lean on me, Dad," he said. "These stairs are difficult, and you haven't your strength back yet."

"I shall be glad to, my boy," my father said with surprising acquiescence, and as Lillian and I followed their halting progress up the steep stairs we looked at each other questioningly. Did his yielding mean that he was becoming weaker or more sensible?

But once on the attic floor, he showed no signs of weakness. His stride was like that of a young man as he went directly to the chimney-breast, pausing only to give a hurried direction to Dicky.

"Ask them if they've heard any suspicious noises near the chimney," he said, and a few seconds later Dicky came up to the chimney, around which my father, Lillian and I were already grouped.

Hidden Spring

"Not even the squeak of a mouse," my husband declared, and my father nodded, with his eyes searching the face of the chimney.

"Please hold up that first map, Margaret," the Chief asked, and then he compared map and chimney, running his fingers along the rough stone surface.

"Of course, there's a hidden spring or mechanism which turns a part of this stone in," he said, "but we might go over it dozens of times without finding it."

"But you know exactly where the hidden stairway is, don't you?" Lillian asked.

"Yes, right here," he said, putting his hand upon the massive right end of the chimney breast which I had always thought to be illustrative of the liking of our ancestors for unnecessarily huge chimneys.

"There's room behind here," my father said, "for a spiral stairway, and it must be there, and the door must be on one of these three surfaces."

Trusting to Luck

"Suppose we each have a try at this," Dicky said. "Let's each of us go over every inch of the surface. It's going to be sheer luck anyway, and we probably each have a different touch, so we'll have four chances instead of one."

"Good idea," my father commented and forthwith began exploring the surface of the chimney breast with fingers still deft and sensitive. But he could not find the hidden spring, and neither Lillian nor I had any better success, although we were most painstaking in our search.

Last of all, Dicky took over the task, and as I watched his sensitive artist fingers touching, stroking, pressing, probing, I found myself getting excited and breathless with the conviction that he would succeed where the rest of us had failed.

But the front and side of the chimney breast yielded nothing and as Dicky moved around to the back, with only room for one person to stand comfortably in the space between the projecting wing of the chimney breast and the rear wall of the attic, I, watching his eyes instead of his fingers, saw them widen suddenly, and then the stone moved, slid back to a place inside the chimney, leaving a narrow opening through which we could see the top step of a spiral stairway.

"War of Nerves"

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SOME troublesome conditions with which we had to deal among the soldiers in the last war were the neuroses that developed. Thousands of men had nervous systems that just couldn't stand the strain. "Shell shock" was the name given to one form of war neurosis.

A soldier would be for a time in the midst of exploding shells, and though never hit by a missile, he would become dazed, tremulous and confused, sometimes developing behavior irregularities.

Some of the foreign medical journals are reporting cases of neuroses in non-combatants, and I find as I read of them that I seem to see them duplicated in some of my friends in the United States who are in no way directly involved in the war abroad.

Less fortunate than we are civilians in foreign countries who are exposed to the possibility of (1) air-concussion, a form of shell shock, and (2) suffocation trauma. Air-concussion, from proximity to exploding bombs, may imitate every form of hysteria, anxiety, psychosis and malingering; in this war more so because the explosives are so much more powerful. Suffocation trauma is relatively uncommon but there is, as might easily be imagined, a psychological result which comes from being buried for a while in debris.

The civilian in a nation at war, aside from the possibility of these physical accidents, may be exposed to a mental conflict from the following dangers: (1) He may fight. (2) He may take to flight (this often causes more sheer terror than facing bullets). (3) He may dramatize his condition. (4) he may do nothing but feel.

The two last possibilities are the ones which seem to me to be the real possibilities in our own civil population. Dramatizing the condition includes bombastic speeches about what one should do, imaginary dramatization of pain, fear, fatigue, helplessness and hunger. It is a form of hysteria.

The man or woman who does nothing but feel may enter into a state of anxiety neurosis. It may result in a serious nervous breakdown. It was not so much the fighting that men had to do in the trenches, as the anxiety of waiting, inactivity and restriction which brought on some neuroses.
